

Abstract

The subject invention provides novel compositions of biologically active linderazulene terpene compounds which can advantageously be used for treating cancer and stopping cell proliferation.